

THE BEST EXHIBITIONS THIS WEEK IN LONDON, FROM FRANCIS ALÿS TO FIRELEI BÁEZ (JUNE 27 TO JULY 4)

We pick the best art shows to enjoy this week

Elizabeth Gregory, The Standard, 27 June 2024

Lorna Robertson, Four Nights of a Dreamer (detail), 2024. Courtesy: Alison Jacques, London © Lorna Robertson

With access to hundreds of museums and galleries a tube ride away, we Londoners are spoilt for choice when it comes to a fun day out. But sometimes the capital's embarrassment of riches means it's tricky to pick where to go.

Do you disappear into the National Gallery for an afternoon, pop by some of the independent galleries in Marylebone, explore East London's exciting offerings, or wander around the Tate?

Look no further every week: here's our pick of five extraordinary exhibitions to see in London right now.

Lorna Robertson, A Night of Knowing Nothing, 2024. Courtesy: Alison Jacques, London © Lorna Robertson

The works of Glasgow-based Lorna Robertson are swirling, dream-like paintings that sit between abstraction and figuration. Here, in her first solo show in London, Robertson presents a new body of work that plays with ideas around memory, the readability of an image, and fantastical narratives.